

Phil Jackson skipped the Lakers winning parade due to a medical appointment he couldn't rescheduled.

The Lakers want Jackson the winner of eleven NBA titles to return but could they afford to pay him less then the twelve million dollars he made this season?

Meanwhile Doc Rivers is debating if he should return to the Celtics, in an interview he said he is leaning one way(without saying which way).

Some will return, some will not, keep us anticipated.